

Bodegas y Viñedos Ilurce

Located in the heart of Rioja Baja in the town of Alfaro, Bodegas Ilurce is owned and operated by the fourth generation of the Escudero family. The family has grown grapes in Rioja Baja since 1940, and the current generation takes advantage of a wealth of 60 hectares of vineyards that are planted in alluvial and limestone heavy soils with a high abundance of stones on the slopes of the Monte Yerga. The vines range from century old head trained Garnacha to high density plantings of Graciano and Tempranillo. Located at high altitudes, 2000 ft. (600m) above sea level, the vineyards take advantage of very cold winters and nights, combined with warm summers – perfect conditions for the maturation of Graciano, perhaps the estate’s most important treasure.

JEB DUNNUCK

“The 2015 Rio Mazos (100% Graciano aged in new French oak) is more classical in style and offers lots of black raspberry and cassis fruit as well as classy oak, leather, and cedar. Full-bodied, rounded, and sexy on the palate, with a gorgeous texture, it’s another incredibly unique, yet sensational wine. It will keep for two decades.” – Jeb Dunnuck
