

The Azienda Agricola “Il Poggiolo” was started in 1971 through the devotion and passion of Roberto Cosimi. Roberto’s son, Rodolfo (Rudy), along with wife Cecilia, now own and operate the estate since Roberto’s death in 1989. In 1994 Rudy personally purchased the six acre Terra Rossa vineyard to contrast the traditional style wines made by his father at Il Poggiolo. Terra Rossa Brunello’s were designed, beginning from the first vintage, with a more modern interpretation of Brunello di Montalcino. The Terra Rossa wines are made at the same facility as the Il Poggiolo just in a different fashion.

Terra Rossa is a single 6 acre vineyard at 350-400 meters on the southwest side of the town of Montalcino. Wines from these higher altitude vineyards generally display more finesse and elegance than wines from some of the other lower subzones of Montalcino. Terra Rossa Brunellos have long aging potential.
